I had the pleasure of knowing Tim from the moment he interviewed at Vermeer. There was something about his modesty that I always appreciated. He never complained and could stay focused for days on end. I enjoyed listening to his stories of camping and the never ending saga of hitting deer while driving to work! He loved his wife Rhonda, grand kids, and their boxer. It pains me to miss his funeral. Rhonda, you are in our prayers. The Shues.

I had the the privilege working with Tim through the years. I'm gonna miss the mornings with him making coffee and getting caught up on the gossip from the day before from home or work. He had the kindest of hearts and the best sense of humor of anyone I have known and I'm missing him already. Rhonda, our thoughts and prayers are with you and your family in this time of sorrow. - Quentin Plate

Sure hated to hear this news. Tim taught me everything I ever knew about computers. From way back in the DOS days and up through all the different versions of Windows. He was a nice easy going guy that was fun to hang out with. Sure enjoyed our computer projects we had back in the day. He will be missed.
